

THE WAGNER FESTIVAL.

HONORING THE MASTER'S MEM-ORY AT PAYREUTH.Artistic Performance of "Tristan and Isolde"—Many Distinguished
People Among the Visitors.

Payreuth, July 26.—In the presence of an immense audience the first performance of Tristan and Isolde began at 4 o'clock yesterday in the Festival Theatre. It met with a success surpassing all expectations. Special commendations were accorded to the orchestra, which was under the leadership of Herr Felix Moll, of Karlsruhe. The title roles were played by Frau Sauer, of Leipzig, and Herr Sauer, of Munich. Frau Sauer's power of voice maintained its force until the fall of the curtain. Her acting was greatly admired throughout. She was on the stage constantly from the first scene to the last. In the last scene, in which occurs the death of "Isolde," her singing and acting were inspired by the deepest passion. Herr Sauer as "Tristan" again proved his title to be reckoned one of the greatest German interpreters of Wagner's heroes. With his accustomed address he was able to make the most use of his voice, which continued full and powerful to the close of his fatiguing task. The death scene was especially thrilling.

Herr Pank, of Karlsruhe, who last year corral a great success as "Klingor," took the part of "Kunze." He possesses a magnificent baritone voice, and played in a masterly style the part of the brave warrior and a faithful servant of his master, "Tristan."

Franklin Stedding, of Karlsruhe, played "Barnenor," astonishing the audience not only by her splendid mezzo-soprano voice, but also by her dramatic acting.

The dresses, which were after drawings by Prof. Flugge, of Munich, constituted in reality the character of the festival. The costumes, and the magnificent scenery, all combined to produce a perfect picture of the character.

Every seat had been taken and a large part of the audience was composed of English and Americans. Among those who occupied boxes were Duke John of Mecklenburg, the Grand Duchess Vera of Wurttemberg, Prince Ernest of Saxe-Meiningen and family, Abbe Liszt, members of the Wagner family and Minister von Patt-kamer.

The greatest success was achieved in all the parts, exhibiting careful and painstaking rehearsal. No fatigue was observed in either actors or audience. The great love duet in the second act, which occupied forty minutes, was finely sung by Frau Sauer and Herr Vogler, who received great applause, with the magnificent accompaniment of the orchestra. The applause which followed the first and second acts culminated at the end of the third in a great demonstration, all the actors being called before the curtain.

The enthusiasm was indescribable. Hats and handkerchiefs were waved and the cheering lasted several minutes. The success achieved by the piece was quite equal to that obtained by the Nibelungen Ring and Parsifal. The performance, which was unadorned, lasted until 10 o'clock.

The Imperial Royal and Ducal opera houses of Vienna, Munich, Dresden, Karlsruhe and Weimar sent their best artists to do honor to Wagner. Others came from all parts of Germany, a dozen from England and Holland. There were over 100 instrumentalists and an equal number of singers. Carl Ambros, of the Court Theatre of London, conducted the instruments behind the scenes. The chorus was divided into groups and placed at various points to increase the effect. The rehearsal have been continued since the end of June, most of the artists utilizing their annual summer holiday in rehearsing. Every day the hour from 9 o'clock in the morning till 8 o'clock in the evening were occupied variously by the band choruses, songs, music, etc. Two full rehearsals were held each week, to which a privileged few were admitted. They were really complete performances.

The success of both Parsifal and Tristan and Isolde has definitely decided the question as to whether the festival in 1887 when probably Der Meister Sings will also be given. There will be a further repetition of Nibelungen Ring in 1888, and if the festival meets with continued success, it will become a yearly institution. Herr Kramich, of the Ducal Opera House of Darmstadt, has the technical direction of the stage.

Special trains from Vienna and Munich brought thousands of visitors to Payreuth. The weather was delightful. The Wagnerites were elated over the success of the festival. A large number of French musicians were present, and it is expected the success of the opera will increase the popularity of Wagner in France.

Almost a Serious Accident.
New York, July 26.—There was an accident at 8 o'clock on 11th street and River yesterday afternoon which might have proved very serious. It was due to some inherent weakness of the structure of a pier at the foot of the street and the pier gave way beneath the weight of a crowd which had gathered to witness a swimming race, and a large number of them, probably twenty or thirty, were flung into the water. Luckily the greater number were promptly taken out without serious harm, and a warning was given for a time in considerable peril, but it is confidently believed that no life was lost through the mishap.

THE GROWING CROPS.

WEEKLY SUMMARY OF THE
"FARMER'S REVIEW."The Prolonged Drought Beginning to Have a Very Serious Effect on Wheat Prospects.

CHICAGO, Ill., July 25.—The following crop summary will appear in this issue of the Farmer's Review: "The prolonged drought, which is almost unprecedented in length and severity, is beginning to have a very serious effect upon all late crops. The spring wheat outlook has been in some improvement, and the average condition of the crop has declined since July 1, when the Farmer's Review indicated that the probable total wheat yield of the United States would not exceed 4,000,000,000 bushels. The report of the census indicates that this estimate will have to be reduced by from 10,000,000 to 15,000,000 bushels. The report from Nebraska, Dakota, and Minnesota, which are the most important wheat producing States, do not indicate an average yield of six to ten bushels to the acre, with many fields entirely ruined. Corn is reported very uneven in Michigan, Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa and Nebraska, and while looking ahead in need of rain and assistance in the yield is threatened. In Minnesota corn is looking well but is beginning to feel the effects of the drought. The total crop will fall short, with a promise of not to exceed one-half an average yield in Wisconsin and Minnesota and three-fourths of an average yield in Illinois, Michigan and Iowa. With the exception of Minnesota, the potato crop is threatened with a failure, few of the reports indicating more than one-half a yield, and in many sections a complete failure. The pastures in all the Northwestern States are reported as short, and in large sections ruined. In portions of Wisconsin the cattle are given feed, owing to an inability to obtain assistance in the dried up pasturing lands. The dried up pastures of Michigan, Illinois and Wisconsin are very poor.

St. Paul, Minn., July 26.—A Portland, Ore., special to the Pioneer Press says: "The grain market was ruled by yesterday's hail storm in this section will aggregate 750,000, which at present prices means a loss of $450,000."

Seasonable Rains in Wisconsin.
CHICAGO, Ill., July 26.—The Evening Journal's Milwaukee special says: "Last night a heavy storm set in and it lasted until an early dawn, a seasonable rain, which was much needed by the general throughout the State, and will save the crops in many sections. The most deleterious effects of the drought in Sheboygan county and that part of the State have been relieved here during the past few days. The farmers and dairymen are calling off the dogs to keep them from starving, as the grass and grain has all dried up and the prospects of crops are so poor that good horses have sold for $30, and fine cows for $25 and $30."
